SUPREME ALSO ON CHESAPEAKE BAY

Times-Dispatch Is First Home Newspaper to Reach Incoming Fleet.

For a time after they reached Old Point yesterday morning the thousands of Richmonders who went down had to look twice before they realized that they were not back home, for there they were greeted by the familiar faces of eight newsboys, all veterans in the art of selling papers, and each crying lustily: "Here's your Times-Dispatch." It was a bit of enterprise and a bit of audacity, but it was his purpose not to let those accustomed to looking over the "morning sheet" be disappointed.

It was a tough day for the boys, with rain falling in torrents, but when the summary was taken, 5,000 papers had been distributed among the crowd, and the pockets of the youths jingled with coins enough to "sport on" for the rest of the day. Early in the morning the newsies, each having been previously supplied with transportation, left Main Street Station, and when the crowds gathered on the Old Point dock they were selling papers like "hot cakes." The excursionists seemed to appreciate the surprise, and welcomed the paper.

Their tasks on land finished, Circulation Manager Yates, with S. M. Brooks, the mail foreman, boarded a launch and visited each of the battleships. A bundle of papers, enough to furnish all the men, some of whom had not seen a newspaper in months, were thrown aboard. The sailors cheered the thought of seeing a Virginia paper, and lusty hurrahs were given as the little launch pulled out to visit the next ship in line.

OUTLINE HIS PLATFORM

Harry St. George Tucker Will Address Mass-Meeting to-Morrow Night. At the mass-meeting at the Academy of Music to-morrow night, Harry St. George Tucker will outline the platform on which he asks the Democratic voters of the State to place him in the Governor's chair at the Capitol. This will be the first gun to be fired in the battle between Mr. Tucker and Judge Mann, and the battle will be waged with vigor until the primary, late in the summer.

Colonel John S. Hargwood, president of the Bryan-Kern-Lamb Club, will preside, and Harry M. Smith will preside. The board of directors will be 150 vice-presidents, supporters of Mr. Tucker, who will be named to-day.

HENRICO WARMING TO POLITICAL FRAY

Rumors of Coming Fight for Position of Sheriff Stir County.

Politically, Henrico county is again warming, and, if reports be true, there will be no let-up until after the county election in 1911. Just now interest is centered around the fight for the Legislature between Thomas W. Gardner and C. W. Throckmorton, who are both running for the Legislature. There is no one to oppose him for the nomination. Charles W. Childers was spoken of, and considered the matter of running for the Legislature. He finally withdrew in favor of Mr. Gardner, whom he will support.

RESUME HEARING ON TWO CENT RATE

Southern Railway Will Present Its Case to Corporation Commission To-Day.

Two railroads—the Southern and Atlantic Coast Line—will be given a hearing by the State Corporation Commission this week on their petitions for relief from the 2-cent passenger rate.

The commission will convene at 11 o'clock this morning, and Chief Counsel A. P. Thom will begin the presentation of the Southern's case, Comptroller A. H. Plant being called as the first witness. The case of the Atlantic Coast Line will be taken up at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, and may be concluded that afternoon.

Argument in the cases probably will not be heard before next week, and when that is concluded the members of the commission will go over all of the evidence. They probably will not head down a decision in several weeks. The Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western and Seaboard Air Line Railroads completed their evidence last week. All of the roads submitted masses of figures to prove that they have lost money on their passenger rates since the 2-cent rate went into effect. The Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio laid special stress upon the fact that the 2-cent rate greatly reduces their interstate passenger receipts.

BLUES' INSPECTION

Battalion Ordered Out for Full Dress Review at City Hall.

Preparatory to the trip to Washington, and also for the annual review by the officers of the United States Army, Major E. W. Bowles, commanding the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, issued the following general order to his command yesterday morning:

"This command is ordered to report at its armory Wednesday, February 24, 1909, at 8:15 o'clock P. M., in full dress uniform, for full dress parade. The first call will be sounded at 8:20 and assembly at 8:30.
 "The command will form in front of the City Hall at 9 o'clock. The parade will include the band, the commissioned and non-commissioned staff and the three companies. Major Bowles expects almost all of the battalion to attend the parade, and thinks that the showing will be the best made this year.
 "Donation Day.
 "Thursday will be the annual Donation Day at the Retreat for the Sick. The board of managers will acknowledge the receipt of all contributions.

THEY FISHED AS FLEET CAME IN

Anglers Jumped Off at Reservoir and Came Back Loaded Down.

Apparently ignorant that there was such a thing as an incoming fleet, a party of Richmonders yesterday quietly fished without less than ten miles from the port at which thousands of people were cheering and shouting a welcome. This party came out on the Newport News reservoir, and came up on one of the excursion trains last night.

"I got more than seventy-five pounds of chub for mine," said Edgar E. War, of 1127 West Avenue, one of the party, "and that's just as true as what George Washington said. When his father asked him about the clerk's fee, 'Sure enough, the party was in the street,' and they brought back the fish. Another of the party said: 'Think of seeing ships when fish are biting.'
 "In buckets, on strings and in the pockets of fishing coats, the happy sportsmen stuck their game, and their army joined more than one passer-by on the train called their game last night.
 "So unparliamentary," said one maiden, as she turned up her nose in scorn, and another remarked: "I think it's wrong to fish when you've got to ignore the sailor boys to do it." The fishermen, some of them blushed, and declared: "We're satisfied."

Bell Dead in Street.
 Ellish B. Bell, colored, walked out of Faulkner's poolroom, at 809 E. Ward Street, last night, and fell dead in the street. Coroner Taylor, who was immediately summoned, pronounced death to be due to congestion of the lungs.

DEATH WAS DUE TO ACCIDENT

Coroner's Jury Places No Blame for Fall in Ditch.

After due investigation by the coroner's jury, called yesterday afternoon to examine into the causes of his death, it now seems thoroughly certain that Frank Haden was killed accidentally by falling into the excavation on Twenty-second Street, between Main and Franklin, some time Saturday night.

Evidence that was expected to prove that the barricade surrounding the ditch had not been placed on the night of the accident, and that the train went directly to Old Point, and that the passengers boarded the Old Dominion steamer Pocahontas and went out into the bay to meet the incoming warships.

Carrying about 1,000 passengers, the special train of the Westmoreland Club left at 8:15 o'clock, and arrived in Newport News two hours later. There the excursionists embarked on the New-York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railway steamer Pennsylvania, and met the warships in the roads.
 Three other special trains were run, some of these carrying private coaches with parties from Washington, Philadelphia and New York. These trains, however, could not accommodate the crowds that continually arrived at Main Street Station, and the regular train for Newport News and Old Point was run in two sections.
 The Norfolk and Western also carried big crowds, more than 500 people being hauled over that line Sunday and yesterday morning. Crowds went from this city to Newport News and Hampton Sunday, the Chesapeake and Ohio being compelled to run two sections of the regular fast trains at 9 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

APPROVES THE CHOICE.

Drs. Alderman and Smith Upheld by Chapter.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
 ORANGE, VA., February 22.—At a meeting of the Thirteenth Virginia Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, held Saturday afternoon, Mrs. C. B. Tate, president of the Virginia division, was received, requesting that the Lee prize essay by Miss Christine Boyan be read, considered carefully and action taken thereon. After full and free discussion, the following statement was made:
 "The chapter while regretting the error and lack of historical information exhibited by the writer of the essay in question, recognizes the honesty of purpose and literary merit of the production.
 "The chapter approves the action of Drs. Alderman and Smith in making the award to what was in their judgment, the best essay submitted by the United Daughters of the Confederacy committee appointed by the general association."

MANY ERRORS FOUND.

Court Is Now Probing Roonke Local Option Election.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
 RICHMOND, Va., February 22.—The hearing of the local option election of the Corporation Court, City Clerk Willis presented the records of the Councils, showing that the polling places were changed from those designated by the Councils. One witness, H. C. Davies, testified that he had been refused the right to vote on account of his taxes not being paid when he had paid them.
 The remainder of the day was devoted to checking up names of those who voted when their names were not correctly placed on the lists or poll books, and many errors were found. It is thought that the hearing will result in an order compelling a large crowd was present, including many ministers of the gospel.

COVENANTERS ARE READY FOR TRACK

Basketball Lacks Interest in View of Approaching Events.

In a close game of basketball at the Covenanters gym last night the Rubes downed the Reds by the score of 15 to 14. Lorraine and Watson, for the Rubes, managed to cage several goals, while Gilliam and Wood, of the opposing team, were the only players credited with points.
 As track work is taking the attention of the athletes throughout the city, the basketball men have had their time diverted from basketball, and the contests have lacked the speed of the previous games this season.

SEVEN THOUSAND GO FROM RICHMOND

Afloat and Ashore, Crowds of Local People Witness Return of Fleet.

SEVEN TRAINS ON C. & O.

Westbound Express Is Side-Tracked While Specials Race Down Peninsula.

Afloat and ashore, nearly 7,000 Richmonders yesterday saw the Atlantic battleship fleet return to Hampton Roads after the cruise around the world.
 About 5,000 of this number left the city yesterday morning over the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, seven trains being required to accommodate them. From the time the first train pulled out of the Main Street Station at 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning, until three hours later, practically all other traffic on the division of the road between this city and Newport News was suspended, the special trains being given the right of way. The regular train, which left Newport News for Richmond at 10:35 o'clock, was side-tracked at Grove for twenty minutes while the last of the specials raced down the Peninsula.

Clubs Carry Large Crowds.
 The first special to leave the city was that of the Commonwealth Club, carrying nearly 1,000 passengers. This train went directly to Old Point, and there the passengers boarded the Old Dominion steamer Pocahontas and went out into the bay to meet the incoming warships.

HATCHET IS BURIED.

The captain's sword for a moment as though the delinquent would be at once sent to the guard-house, better part of that discretion was the better part of the day, and that the company could not at this time afford to lose even one man, he joined the rest of the outfit in burying the hatchet and restoring the order of formation.
 Order was for the time restored, and the march resumed. At this juncture the silent figure of a man, who quietly stepped out of line and gave him a severe jolt with the muzzle of the gun where the bayonet ought to be fixed. With an extra whoop and a last salute, the captain waved his sword in the air, and the big bronze horse, the drum rattle, and it was all off to Nineteenth Street.

WILD RUMOR CURRENT

Hundreds Startled by False Report of Disaster at Old Point.

No sooner had a rumor been reported about the streets yesterday afternoon that the wharf at Old Point had given away and many persons drowned, than the Times-Dispatch communicated with the resort by telephone and telegraph. There was no truth in the report, and it is believed to have started in the mind of some person bent on creating a sensation. As far as is known there was no serious accident to any of the thousands who went to witness the incoming of the fleet from this city.
 The hundreds of persons called up the Times-Dispatch office, and many inquired about relatives who left the city on the general excursions. All who were called were promptly told that the rumor must have originated in this city, as constant communication with the army of newspaper men at Old Point gave no indication of such a disaster.

STABBED HIM IN BACK.

Frank Waters, colored, was dangerously stabbed in the Jefferson Poolroom, 208 West Broad Street, early last night by Anderson Ford, who afterwards escaped.
 The two men quarreled over a game of pool, and Ford, it is alleged, clinched the argument with his knife, stabbing Waters three times in the back. The wounded negro was attended by Dr. Sterrett, of the City Ambulance Corps.

YOUNG AMERICA SALUTES STATUE

Minutive Military Organization of East End Honors George Washington.

INCIDENTS OF CELEBRATION

Parade Is Followed by Confederate Veteran in Gray Uniform.

Apparently the only one of the several military organizations of the city that took official notice of the natal day of the Father of His Country was the "Nineteenth Street Dixie Blues," a company of small boys which sprung into existence a short time ago somewhere in the East End. Costumed in uniforms of blue, with bright yellow stripes on the trousers, they made their first appearance in the upper part of the city yesterday afternoon. With two diminutive youngsters straggling under as many huge United States flags and another beating uncertain time on a hoop and protesting drum, they marched and counter-marched around Crawford's Washington in the Capitol Square. Now and then the squad was halted to salute with the utmost gravity the martial figure on the bronze horse. Occasionally it faced to some other part of the square, but ever and anon returned panting to break ranks and camp temporarily beneath the pointed finger.

Most of the time they were accompanied by a veteran of the Civil War, who with gray coat and brass buttons did his part towards coaching the company and showing his own patriotism. One of the interesting incidents of the parade occurred just as the squad was swinging into the main entrance of the square, and at a time when the captain was particularly desirous of making a brave show for the benefit of spectators. He stepped upon the sidewalk to witness the manoeuvre. Crossing the sidewalk at the crucial point of the movement, one of the rank and file—unfortunately marching in the centre of the line—tripped and fell broadside, rolling over several times and casting his dummy gun far in front of the line. Whereupon the entire company stacked arms and proceeded to banter the unfortunate brother, despite the frantic efforts of the captain to restore order and have the line close in over the gap as though the comrade had fallen by the bullet of the enemy. Brained and disgruntled, the awkward one tucked his gun under his arm after the manner of a squirrel hunter, shrugged his shoulders in monumental disgust and proceeded to desert.

HATCHET IS BURIED.

SPECIAL TERM TO OLDEST ALUMNUS TRY JAMES SMITH OF VIRGINIA DEAD

Hamlet May Also Face Jury for Murder of James Flynn.

Judge R. Carter Scott, of the Henrico Circuit Court, has called a special term for Thursday and Friday, for the purpose of trying James Smith, colored, for the murder of James Flynn, who was found dead on the Westhampton car line just one month before the day that the trial begins. Charles Hamlet, who was with Smith at the time of his arrest, will probably be tried as an accessory, after he has testified for the Commonwealth in the case against Smith.

Both Commonwealth's Attorney Julian Gunn and Attorney A. H. Sands, who was appointed by Judge Scott to defend Smith, are hard at work preparing for the trial. Though he has been put through almost every form of questioning known to clever detectives, Smith was weaker on the stand, and stoutly declares that he is innocent, though when he was arrested he was wearing clothes identified as those of the dead man. It is said that the State will produce as witnesses two white men who will testify that Smith and Hamlet were together on the car line before the killing. This, coupled with the fact that they were walking together when they were arrested, will be introduced as evidence that both were implicated.

PRISONERS MAKE MERRY

Celebrate Holiday With Big Minstrel Washington's Birthday Was Celebrated at the State Penitentiary.

Yesterday with two performances of the big minstrel show, which even surpassed all expectations. For the occasion, the performers were allowed to shed their stripes for the time, and don such fantastic garb as belted the actors in one of the real theatrical performances. The members of the cast had been proficient in their various parts in better days, and with several releases were almost as proficient as of yore. The orchestra was good, and contained a variety of instruments.
 The entertainment was made more enjoyable by the timely arrival of Polk Miller with his banjo in line for the last performance. Mr. Miller had been asked to lend his efforts some time ago, but had declined on account of other engagements. Later he found that he could accept. He listened with great enjoyment to the performance of the convict actors. After the show they went into the audience to be entertained by his songs, music and stories.

QUIET AT CITY HALL

A special meeting of the Common Council has been called for Thursday night for the purpose of receiving the annual budget, which will be tabled according to the usual form of procedure. It is probable that, unless a suspension of the rules, other important matters will be taken up.
